

Leggere i classici oggi - The ages who doubt about the utility of the classics are those that have no questions to ask, because they have lost the curiosity and the desire to change. Societies too immature to take initiatives that will lead to radical changes or too resigned to feel themselves as the protagonists of their own destiny, convinced that the new can come only from the outside, from a military, economic or cultural conquest; on the contrary, there was never much interest in the classics and the antique as in times of great changes and revolutions.

GIOVANNI POLARA - is Professor of Latin Literature at the University Federico II of Naples. Scholar of late antiquity and the early Middle Ages, he was also a member of the National University Council
